This is somewhat limiting. I always wanted to know what a fellow programmer thinks about a specific project and I couldn't (have limited time). What could be done to make those questions viewable on meta (without naming the project to avoid naming a project on meta). So as to not be misleading. Or maybe it is better to avoid them all together. If you also want to discuss the OP, then you are probably better off to write a comment. A: If you want to discuss the question but don't want to contribute to the project, then you should probably put your comments in a comment instead of asking/answering your own question.
