Although it may look more like Photoshop than any other photo-editing program, Pixelmator doesn't offer many of the more advanced features that you would find in Photoshop. Is Photoshop the Right Photoshop for you? If you are a hobbyist or beginner at editing images, Photoshop may be too complex to learn on your own and you might find it slow. You may also not know the right terminology to be able to use Photoshop efficiently. If you are a professional or advanced digital artist, Photoshop might be all that you need but it might also be too powerful to learn all of the tools in the program. If you are a beginner, you can also use the basic version of Photoshop with the alternative tools of Photoshop Elements. Some features that are part of Photoshop are not available in Photoshop Elements. Some people prefer Elements because it is a lighter program and it has fewer features than Photoshop. Photoshop is also called the heavy artillery of digital editing. It does more than the other programs available. Some other programs include: Photography-specific programs like Lightroom. Lightroom is now my preferred program because it is fantastic at organizing, editing, and working with images. It has a lot of features that Photoshop does not. A picture editor like GIMP for making basic edits such as cropping, resizing, and basic retouching. The simplest tool for making GIF and animated GIF files: Imagemagick. Web designers sometimes use a program called TinyPNG. A simple paint program called Paint.NET for art and graphics. See Also: The 25 Best Free Stock Photo Websites Photoshop Elements Vs. Bologna, Fiorentina and Cagliari were relegated to Serie B at the end of the previous season, and seven clubs were promoted to replace them: Reggina, Messina, Napoli, Napoli B, Perugia, Salernitana and Udinese. On 22 February 2006, Juventus were originally deducted four points by the FIGC after using ineligible players. However, the FIGC eventually reversed its decision on 4 March, leading to Juventus playing the remainder of the season with the same points total.
