have a button inside a rich:popupPanel, the user can click the button and I need to change its text. So, in the popupPanel, there's a button to change the text, but the page goes to the index.jsp - event. How can I do it dynamically, showing the ID of the button? Thanks A: I dont know your specific use case, but if you want to change the value of a then just change its value attribute. Edit Then do:

function editButton( id ){ document.getElementById( id ).value = "New Value"; //do something else.. } As long as the function is bound to the onclick attribute of the tag and it is passed the id of the button, then it should work. Q: Bit Depth Specification of Audio Routing I'm planning on getting an audio router for controlling multiple analog mixers. From what I understand, there is no real specification for bits per sample for a 2ch sound, so I can assume that I should choose my bits per sample to be the same for all channels. Do you think that would be a good idea and/or how can I find out which bits per sample should I go for? A: Using native bits per sample for all channels is reasonable -- you'll rarely, if ever, see a scenario where you need to add 1 or 2 bits per channel to the one channel, and 2 or 4 to another. Because of that, I would suggest going with the "recommended" sample rate that your DAC provides, and at least double that sample rate. For example, if you have a device that is sampling at 44,100 Hz, then a good idea is to sample at 88,200 Hz and use
