Steel, Leather and Glass — The ICE Be 4-6-2, Class 1014, built at the Graz of Střetnice in 1920/21, was not the most successful locomotive class on the whole German rail network. The only two members of the class were withdrawn in the course of the post war renumbering; no survivors are known to exist. Design and development of the Be 4-6-2 had begun on the order of the Střetnice-Děčín railroad. It was intended to replace the Tatra T4 class in the branch line's 4-4-2 service. In 1919, the question of whether the new locomotive should also be used on the mainline came up. And so the trial run at Graz was taken on a two-day trial in September and October 1919. The new locomotive was officially presented in 1920 and entered service as number 1014 in the series of Be locomotives in January 1921. In the course of the first four years, a total of 31 Be 4-6-2 locomotives were purchased by the Střetnice-Děčín line. Twelve of them were located on the mainline. The KTG locomotive was placed on the priority list of Eastern German Railways, the movement order No. 3116, which was in the course of construction at the Berlin Maschinen

Jack is the laziest, most irrelevant 'computer guy' working in a tech company. When the CEO falls into grace with him and shows him the most inner secrets of the company, little he suspects of the events that are going to be unleashed during his last hours at the office, whilst he becomes the ultimate nerd-action-hero. Just as he plays with the CEO, Jack now leaves a diary of all the documents on his desk for us, the player, to read in the end. The diary is a simple adventure game, in which your only task is to find hidden hidden items. Find all the items to solve all the puzzles and become the ultimate nerd-action-hero. With missions, optional side-quests and goodies aplenty, Jack is going to get more complex as time passes. Look at the papers, look at the items, the style, get the clues! FEATURES: - minimalist story with hints and clues - 56 detailed handcrafted and designed levels - 10 minutes of each level - tons of secrets to solve - 5 endings and 3 possible outcomes - beautiful artwork and graphic designed by SpenValk - special cameo appearances by the developers - a special title screen done by cellartag - 5 types of enemies, 3 bosses and the action end boss - 60 unique weapons found in the office, including mysterious and special items! - 6 different and customizable sidequests - 9 achievements - 15 minutes of music from the software's group, Cellartag - enjoy Jack's diary, being in your last hours on this company. This game was made as a side project for the team Cellartag and is now complete. Enjoy my other side project, The RPG! To date, the game has been translated into 9 different languages. ... best mod ever on Super C64. I like to customize my games for that games is really one of my favorite mods. If you get the chance to use this, you will notice all the changes, easy to remember but lots of fun. My last C64 game, was the Street Fighter mini game. With all the mod feature, this mod is like a mini game in itself. There is no end to the amount of options that you can change and tailor the game to your own liking. The graphics are from pixel, but is not a glitch, it looks real for the most part. The audio is only decent, but you have the option to change c9d1549cdd

and physics-based educational challenge that involves forty schools in Poland. For the first time in the history of Poland, a national examination for students in the tenth grade was introduced. Like their counterparts in the United States, Australian, and Russian, participants of Geometry Rush are divided into teams. The team with the highest mathematical score, who also succeeds in solving a physics-based puzzle, is declared the winner of the Geometry Rush and receives a monetary prize. Geometry Rush is created and administered by SuperGryp (an independent company) from Łódź, a Polish city known for high technological achievements. Contest themes focus on geometry, topology, analytic geometry, solid geometry, algebra, and trigonometry. Contest mechanics are based on the use of hand-held electronic calculators. The mathematical riddle used in the Geometry Rush is on the penultimate page and is typically answered with a trigonometric equation or the Pythagorean formula (the formula expresses a known relationship, in the case of the Geometry Rush the relationship between the sizes of two right triangles). Introduced in 2007, Geometry Rush currently has 250,000 regular participants, including thousands from Spain, Finland, Israel, Taiwan, Czech Republic, and the United States. Since the launch of the tournament, the results of the Geometry Rush have been commented upon both in Poland and internationally. In particular, a team of mathematicians from Poland won the European Mathematical Society Young Researchers Award in 2009 for their work on the Geometry Rush. The first International Geometry Rush, held in the summer of 2009 in Poland, included teams from 10 European countries. Recent topics in Geometry Rush include the first prize in the mathematics category for a puzzle related to Conway's game of life; the fourth Geometry Rush prize in the mathematics competition for a puzzle related to geometry; and, as of 2012, the first Gorynian (geometry puzzle) one in the physics competition. History Geometry Rush is created by SuperGryp. The first Geometry Rush was introduced on October 5, 2007. The tournament was originally created for students in ninth and tenth grades with plans to expand to other grades. The Geometry Rush marks the first time a national examination
