

Pylon is an action-RPG with RPG elements, where the player assumes the role of a rogue space rogue and sets out on a quest to rid the galaxy of a short-sighted alien threat. The four heroes lead the player into an interstellar struggle to save their home planet and the galactic galaxy as a whole. As the story unfolds, the four heroes will grow and develop, and will require different strategies to finish the game. Trailer: PYLON: Rogue in RAGE-Rift It has been a long time coming, and at long last you're about to see Pylon in its native digital terrain. Our development has been a wild ride through a variety of platforms and hardware, and just when we thought we had it locked down, RAGE-Rift unveiled entirely new dimensions in the world of home entertainment. The alien menace that threatens our home has taken form as never before and we believe it to be a perfect fit for our latest piece of entertainment. Not only that, but with RAGE-Rift all of us at Imagineer Entertainment can finally stop listening to the screams of our developer (that were pretty relentless, to say the least). PYLON: Rogue is one of the largest projects ever to come from Imagineer Entertainment. We've been working on it for over 5 years now, and feel this is just the beginning. A small taste of the game that will be coming in 2014. But if that wasn't enough to excite you, we've also got a really sweet trailer to add to the mix. PYLON: Rogue is being built in C++ with Ogre3D and is powered by a proprietary engine. That's all for now folks. Thank you for checking out my BLOG. I'll be posting more frequently in the near future, so stay tuned. -JayGo Media Room Blog Online Community PYLON: Rogue Twitter Facebook myreputation.com RECOMMENDED ITEMS AVAILABLE on the website: MULTIPLAYER: PYLON: Rogue ===== Follow @jaygo on Twitter for latest news, updates, and more! * = NEW Features: each with a time limit of 15 seconds. Mum's the Word on Menopause Health Risks "Menopause" is not a word you want to hear in the middle of a gorgeous day with your husband by the pool. You are suddenly having hot flashes, night sweats, are cranky as heck and don't want to talk about it. Imagine being at the beach where half of the people around you are menopausal. How will you feel? Will the boys tease you or do you want to talk about it? When it comes to menopause health, most women aren't ready for the big "M" word. Unfortunately, only 1 in 4 women have time to find out about ways to minimize some of the health risks before and during menopause. There are some quite surprising studies that you may have never heard about that could effect you before and during menopause. I am sure you have wondered "Did that really happen to me?" While you are having your hot flash, your pee sample comes back and turns you into a giant beet, or you wonder if you are having your first period after years of getting them every month. Common Health Risks of Menopause 1) Heart disease. During menopause, women's heart health is in jeopardy. It is estimated that approximately 30,000 heart attacks occur every day. Why? We've been told that women's risk of heart disease is lower than men's so why are we seeing more and more heart disease in women? Healthy bodies do not send hormonal messages to the heart with the same intensity as they used to. During menstruation, our blood is 2.5 times more acidic than healthy blood. The heart has to work overtime to make up for the extra volume and acidity which can eventually lead to heart disease. 2) Cancer. During menopause we often think of cancer as something that happens after 60. According to the National Institute the trial court to instruct the jury to consider the effect of other evidence in deciding where the fire originated in connection with the § 1802 count. We disagree. As the State's evidence with regard to the § 1802 count, including that evidence that the biohazard unit was not a viable fire site, was overwhelming, the trial court did not abuse its discretion in failing to include a CPL § 240.00(1)-(2) instruction with respect to that count. See People v. Magana, 67 NY2d 642, 651-652 [1986] (evidence of defendant's involvement in other unrelated crimes would not have warranted a charge based on CPL § 240.20[1] but had more than enough substantive effects not to constitute a waste of time); People v. Chaney, 165 AD2d 824, 828-829 [3d Dept] lv denied 79 NY2d 848 [1993] (no abuse of discretion in failing to charge jury based on CPL § 240.20[1] where evidence of other crime was extensive and unlikely to influence jury's verdict). Defendant did not preserve for appellate review his challenge to the jury instructions regarding the § 1813 count inasmuch as he failed to object to the charge in the trial court or to raise the challenge on his CPL article 440 motion. In any event, the court's charge in the main charge conference, which was recorded, definitively set forth the appropriate law in that regard and, thus, cured any inadvertent error or omission. With regard to the supplemental charge, defendant contends that the court's response to a question submitted by the jury "was an unconscionable instruction by an appellate court advising the jury" (People v. Jackson, 101 AD3d 1424, 1426 [3d Dept 2012], lv denied 21 NY3d 859 [2013]). We disagree. "It is well-settled that a supplemental charge is required only if the inquiry is direct, and their nature is such that the charge would not otherwise be obvious" (id. [internal quotation marks omitted]). The inquiry here was not direct and the court did not give anything approaching "a `substantial and unequivocal exposition'" (id.) regarding the relief that was authorized to be awarded defendant by statute. Finally, the court, upon balancing the appropriate factors, properly
