Slidex Activation Code is designed for the use of slide indexers or information managers. It has the facility to link slides together in groupings or subgroups and provides backup facilities. It will also work if it is overloaded and a file is corrupted. User Interface: Views: The program contains four views: 1. Index: for indexing slides; 2. Link: for managing the index of slides; 3. Slides: to view slides and restore a damaged slide; 4. Information: to view information on slides or groups. Navigation: The program contains four tools: 1. Forward & Back: to navigate within boxes and boxes. 2. Group: to group slides and subgroups. 3. Box Search: to search for a box. 4. Group Search: to search for a group. Notes: The program uses tabs to manage the views and navigation tools. The Notes screen works with the tabs and, by making all the information and pictures available in two views, indexing and information, the screen provides very efficient navigation and management of the program and of the information which it holds. Backup: Each box has a ready backup when the program is started. If the program is working on a slide in the box then any previous version of this slide is kept ready for restoring. Restoring: The program can restore corrupted slides from a previously saved slide. Slides can be saved in a slide directory. The program can be set up to keep the changes made to a slide in the index without having to be saved to a database. Groups: The program has a list of groups which may be created on the fly from a box or from the index. The program has a Search button that searches the index for a group. Boxes: Each box can have as many as 100 slides in it. Each box can have a header or information page which is shown when first starting the program and which can be moved around the box. The program has as many as 10 trays in a box. Each tray is used to hold slides. The program has as many as 10 trays in a tray. Each tray has a header and a footer which can be changed and moved around in the tray. Trays: The program has as many as 100 trays. Each tray has 10 boxes in it which, in turn, contain as many as 100 slides. Each tray can have a header and footer which can be changed and moved around in the tray. Tabs and File Mapping is a powerful stand alone application that helps you easily organize text documents and MS Office documents. The user interface is very easy to understand. Just select files and add them to groups and save as tabs. It looks like the File Manager of Windows. It is really easy to use and you can easily organize text documents and MS Office documents. I use it with OpenOffice 2.0.5. I can navigate files with a single click on an icon and create groups and subgroups with a single click. It is also very easy to move files and folders between groups. Of course there is also a Tab manager without the included Office files.

What's New in the?

A simple indexing program designed for indexing slides. It can, however, be used for indexing anything that is held in multiple groups and subgroups. Features: Automatically creates a database of up to 10 user defined boxes and holds up to 10 different groups of slides. The boxes may also be user defined. Extracts text (or other) data for items in the boxes and stores all the data in an indexed database (or other data holder). Counts the number of items in each group and box and stores the result as a percentage or absolute count. Exports the data to Excel or Text files. Allows the tables exported from Excel or Text files to be imported back into Slidex. Allows data to be imported from comma separated files. Prints a hard copy of the entire index.
