Tiger Tank 59 is a tank game in which the player needs to pilot a tank and kill the enemy tanks. The game looks like a regular tank arcade game, the game system is more like an upgraded version of the tank games, with 20 kinds of enemy tanks and 10 kinds of player tanks and weapons, this game includes 20 missions, each of the missions has its own storyline. For example: • Mission 1: Protect the player's base • Mission 2: Destroy the big tank • Mission 3: Obtain the most Gold Medals • Mission 4: Break the enemy base and gain a victory. As well as this, the game also includes many different tanks to choose from, it also contains the super assault tank (in the game, it is named "Tiger Tank", it has a tank with a handcrafted shape and big firepower). The game also includes a mission editor, players can add their own missions. Features -Machine gun, air attack and other weapons -Energy, HP, Protection, armor, and fuel tanks -Ability to switch weapons as well as use different weapons -Battle level, more powerful in higher level -Player can start the game from level 1 and select a tank from the beginning, then play the game -The game can be played with both the mouse and keyboard -The game also supports both LTB and VTB -Restart game feature -Automatic fire -Support the different language which was installed on the computer -Languages supported: English, French, Spanish, German, Arabic Controls -Use mouse to control your tank -LMB: move tank -Space: fire weapon -Shift: switch weapons -Up/down: change control view -Left/right: open / close menu -A: empty tank -B: toggle map -Enter: save game -Tab: restart game -E: Exit game

Operation Barbarossa was the joint invasion by Nazi Germany and the Soviet Union into the territory of the Soviet Union on 22 June 1941. The offensive began on 22 June 1941 with the German conquest of the Soviet Union in Operation Barbarossa, as a direct response to the surprise invasion of the Soviet Union by Nazi Germany. The operation was planned in secrecy by Adolf Hitler; its successful conclusion would

Dodge school buses and walk out of your house. Eat pizza and drink milk. Have fun. GravitySlugs isn't just a clicker game, it's a whole new genre. Tap on the giant dots to make them rise and fall, all while collecting the silver coins and avoiding the obstacles. GravitySlugs runs on the Unity engine, using our own engine, which is a blend of bleeding edge 3D tech and high performance 2D physics. You'll play in the 3D environment as a 2D tile based game, which really brings out the depth and makes you feel like you're right there amongst the giant dots and obstacles. Enjoy the glowy, shiny, eye-popping color-palette and mouse-driven controls. GravitySlugs is a hard game. It's a hard game for a reason. I used to play it for hours at a time. The goal of the game is to avoid being smashed and to collect as much silver as you can. KEY FEATURES: - Unique 2D physics in an engaging 3D

A spaceship is a powerful tool for a rescue. Space Engineers is a sandbox space 4x4 simulator and construction game. This game starts slow and fun and then quickly lets you know if you have what it takes to build the ship or vehicle. Imagine constructing a ship in a game where you actually own the tools. Your ship will continue to grow and learn over time. You'll have to fight for resources, materials, and technology in addition to knowing how to construct a ship. Once someone is in space, everyones life is at risk. You have a fuel tank, oxygen tank, food, water, and you can crash into other ships. Imagine the places you can go!! published:25 Dec 2011 views:1828 Space Engineers: Ships-How To Make Ships And Make Them Work published:13 Mar 2013 views:45 Planetary Resources wants to make it so that you can go to a space to mine asteroids and resources. This week, they aired a commercial that says you can "Fly to Space, Fly to Proxima and Mine for Resources." The message carries on that you can use the found resources to "harness energy and change the course of humanity." Having a job in space would be awesome are many reasons, but what are the chances of this being a career you can go into from your school curriculum? This video was recorded on Monday, September 16, when the

FORT MEADE, Maryland — The number of ships that could gather before a U.S. military strike on Syria could number more than 50, according to information disclosed to Marine Col. Kelly Servidio, 40, a student at the Pentagon's Joint Forces Staff College preparing for command of a small Marine Expeditionary Unit (MEU) in Okinawa, Japan. In his room in the dormitory wing of the Marine-operated facility, Servidio eagerly awaits delivery of a series of emails from "Preventive Strike," a project devised to gather information regarding the use of modern cruise missiles against a large number of targets in Syria. Delivered in brief installments late Wednesday night, the emails reveal that the project had conducted preliminary intelligence analysis on a variety of targets in Syria, such as command centers, infrastructure, and military installations. The project had set up telephone calls with academic experts on missiles, the Foreign Press Center at the Pentagon and National Defense University, and academics in the U.S. and Syria. Oddly, Servidio's email read that he was hoping that the Israeli airline El Al flight 188 en route to New York from Tel Aviv Tuesday, September 5, 2012, wouldn't be "shot down as usual due to terrorism." The messages from "Preventive Strike" provide a rare glimpse into the internal workings of a secretive project engineered in response to a series of public questions by Marine Lt. Gen. James Mattis. Mattis, who is now the head of U.S. Central Command and commander of U.S. forces in the Middle East, has long been the architect of U.S. military strategy in the Persian Gulf and the world's premier oil producer. When word broke last week that the U.S. government was preparing to attack Syria, Mattis' participation in the planning process had been widely reported. "Post-action assessment" type talking points generated by "Preventive Strike" indicate that the former Commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps had been involved in the planning process. The project had revealed to the Marine Corps' hard copy staff that it had about
