Oh, it's just a crater left behind by the big earthquake... While it is a very popular recreational spot, Lake Peoria and the rest of the surrounding area are known for their many active volcanoes. The most famous of these is the Boreal volcano at the very middle of the lake. This lake is only a few feet deep at the deepest point, and is the fresh water equivalent of Hawaii's Kilauea Volcano, which was in "eruption mode" for the past 4 years. The threat of an eruption was shown in this photo taken in June 2007. But Lake Peoria is on the move. New earthquakes are occurring frequently. More details here. Fruita is another town that has a fairly active volcano, similar in size to Lake Peoria's Crater Lake. Here's a picture
