The number of people that would like to play are outnumbering the number of players, so now I am going to close down all the servers. But, I may let you play a new Ched you are going to play the high school version of the Ched. Play with your friends and I am going to send a copy of this game to you when we run a new Ched server. The Loadout button consists of all attributes that you can enhance. You can choose a blue colored background and can be selected as the robots color background. When you go into a battle, you are given different situations. If you are in a place where you have not been before and have no equipment, you must also use one of your Special attacks. If you are in a place where you have been before and have equipment, you can use other weapons like the Rocket Launchers, as a counter attack. The special attack you can choose from has a power of close to 100 000. The special attack will cost a large amount of energy. The special attack will be charged for a long period of time. The special attack will use a large amount of energy. When the special attack is over, you can decide to use another attack if you don't have another special attack. If you use the special attack after using it to a certain level, it will cost a huge amount of energy. The special attack has the best attack at the moment. The special attack uses a long period of time. If you are in the mid of the battle, you can buy the special attack and wait until the special attack is charged. If you are in the early of the battle, you can use the special attack without waiting for it to charge. If you are in the early of the battle, you can use the special attack without waiting for it to charge. When you take a hit, you lose 500 life and you also use 500 energy. If you use the special attack right after using the Special Attack the robot, you will lose a large amount of energy. When you attack while in the mid or final attack, you can use a special attack that has a power of 700000. When you use a special attack, you can choose a special attack but when you use the special attack, you can also use special attacks. You can attack

Bladestorm: The Battleground of the Jagged Cape is an upcoming, stand-alone strategy game created by the indie game developer and publisher, The Odd Gentlemen. Bladestorm is set to release on August 23, 2019 for PC. The Bladestorm team comprises of veterans from the King's Quest franchise. Bladestorm will take you on an epic journey where your success is tied to that of the last person standing. Powered by a simple but engaging real-time combat system, Bladestorm combines turn-based strategy gameplay, tactical placement of heroes on the battlefield, and exploration to create a totally unique epic story. In Bladestorm, you assume the role of the Player Hero as they set out to restore order to a world corrupted by the Jagged Cape and the Order of the Dragon. There is only one way to prevent the forces of the Order of the Dragon from total victory - you must defeat their new leader, Jannat, who is hell-bent on executing a complete annihilation. To do so, you will need to reunite your six fallen heroes. From a secret location, you must call forth your allies to battle your way across the world, defeat Jannat and put an end to an Age of Chaos that has been threatening the world for centuries. Story Highlights: You are the Player Hero, a descendant of one of the six famous Knights and the last hope for the world. When your hero and their allies perish in battle, you must join them in Valhalla if you are to restore order to the world. You must complete various quests throughout the game, each with their own challenges and rewards for completing them. As a Player Hero, you wield a sword, a shield, and five other powerful weapons. By combining your hero's attributes and the four powers at your disposal, you will have the strength to vanquish the enemies and have the opportunity to ultimately restore the world. Posable Heroes Free [Win/Mac] [Updated-2022]

This is our most recent game for the Micro:bit. It is a two player game, you and a friend will alternate between being the "tank" and the "robot". It is designed to help prepare you for the "Let's Code" challenge coming in 2018. It is also a challenge of it's own. Not only does it have four different tanks and four different robots, it also has up to 20 different buttons to press. Game Description: Watch your speed as you race around the track, avoiding as much damage as you can. Your tank is a key part of the game. If you damage the tank, you will lose more energy to lose more seconds in the race. Each game is a challenge in itself and there are many different paths to victory. The game takes place around a track and there are four different tanks with different powers and speed. The different tanks behave differently. Tanks Fire: Fire will burn you. You need to avoid getting close to the fire. Thrust: Thrust will push you and knock you off your course. Slow down: Slow down will slow you down. Gravity: Gravity will pull you down to the bottom and push you up the top. You also have 4 different robots. They are different in speed, strength, and how quickly they consume resources to move. Robots Turbo Boost: Your robot can boost up to 6 times when they land on a ramp. This is for the most part a speed boost. The more times you can turbo boost, the higher your score will be. Gravity Boost: The gravity is 20 units. Your robot can boost up to 5 times and then the gravity goes up to 40 units. Shield: When your robot gets hit by a tank, they will not lose as much health. Energy Bar: While it is blue, your robot can regenerate some energy. While it is red, your robot will be pushed back and the energy will disappear. You have a number of consumables to regenerate your energy and survive the race. You will not be able to use the turbo boost if your energy bar is depleted and you will be pushed back a long way. In order to start the game, you have to go up to the Start area. The controls are very simple. If you press the button, the robot will go forward, if you hold it, the robot will go backwards

Anti-Aging Face-Lift ALSO AVAILABLE IN 9.5% GEL & LAXATIVE FORMULA In the movie, when the women's face is called for, they at first show shots of the perfect 1950's face with a soft pink cheek and a pleasant smile. By contrast, the men look like the likes of Salvador Dali or Edward Sorel of the uglies with grimacing faces and eyes that have an invasive stare. Although they don't have any artistic merit, the men attempt to mask themselves with intense faces made of bunches of wrinkles that have been plucked from the women's faces. Is there a science to anti-aging? A renowned facial plastic surgeon of the AMA, Dr. Waller, is asked a question about how to reduce fine lines and wrinkles from his favorite anti-aging face cream. In response, he answered that the creams state that they are anti-aging because "they looked good at the time." We express this same sentiment quite frequently: we are waxing philosophical on the history and the science of anti-aging. Why look it up? Our short answer: Lookup and read; we'll keep it short. In the skin process, the main players are the growth of new cells and the death of old cells. As new cells grow and the old cells die, defects or wrinkles start appearing. When the skin is damaged, it eventually heals of its own. We call this new wound healing, or the regenerative property. With a compromised skin, it is very difficult to say that an anti-aging piece of product will help, because the skin has already been compromised to a point where very little to little improvement can be expected. We have personally tested a few products and have had good results with Wall's Anti-Aging Cream. (By the way, we tested it, found it ready for prime time, and don't want a lot of flack for that out-of-the-bottle opinion.) However, our anti-aging brand, Lipoam, best fits our philosophy. In Lipoam, we have a facial filler that actually penetrates the skin to help fill in the pores, which are major keys to skincare and anti-aging. The filler is called Essence and it actually restores and refills the skin's vitality. While the anti-aging is a skin-replenishing and anti-wr
