A: This is the autodesk-developer. Bujar Niță (; born 18 June 1973) is a Romanian former football goalkeeper. A tall, strong, agile and athletic keeper, he was known for his organisation and commanding presence, after which he often earned the nickname of "Guardia Cetății" or "X-Man". He previously played for FCSB for 12 years, before being called up to play for the national team in 2003, where he was often called up to play in friendly games. He has been linked with a move to Italy to become the new stopper at Napoli. Club career FSCB Niță began his career as a child at clubs in his native city of Slatina, but it was not until he was 14 years old that he was introduced to the most important team in Romania, FSCB. Niță impressed coach Gheorghe Hagi during a trial at his club and was signed up by them. His first team debut was made on 30 January 1992, at the age of just 19, in a match against Sportul Studențesc. Over his twelve years at the club, the title of best goalkeeper of the Romanian League Championship, as well as the best goalkeeper of the Romanian Cup and the Romanian Supercup, were among his achievements. After the year 2004, FSCB went on to merge with German side, Schalke 04. Niță was one of Schalke's most notable players, playing in 77 matches, a world record for a Romanian goalkeeper. In his time with the Bundesliga side, Niță never lost a penalty shootout. In the summer of 2005, Niță signed for another Bundesliga team, VfB Stuttgart. Unfortunately, the deal was very limited in scope, restricting him to just three matches. In 2006, he was loaned out to another Bundesliga side, Bayer Leverkusen, where he was reunited with 13 goals conceded in 120 games, until he retired in 2008, at the age of 32.
