An easy way to use a 22 dongle emulator is to...Q: Server using over 500mb ram in rails app I have a server with 1000Mb ram, and I'm using a couple of large images, as well as other assets (js/css/imgs) to make it more friendly and display faster. But is the way I'm doing this the most correct way to use the server resources? I have a assets folder which contains all the js, css, and images. It is my understanding that the size of each of these files will be distributed accross the memory of the server, so I should be fine with this setup. However I am loading assets in the following way:
