Drawing Tools AutoCAD is primarily used to draw 2D designs, such as line drawings and block diagrams. 2D Design and Drafting Tools A very useful tool in AutoCAD is the ability to place and edit drawings. 3D Modeling Tools In AutoCAD, you can model 3D objects. You can make the modeling tools operate by using the mouse or by using a drawing tablet. AutoCAD enables you to create geometrically accurate, parametric 3D shapes. 3D Printing and Virtual Reality

Saturday, April 30, 2009 Mockingbird I just finished reading The Best of Chicken Soup for the Soul. The author is an unknown, but I will be purchasing her second book to see if it is any good. I really enjoyed this book. There are only a few chapters I would suggest that you read first. The first one is on the best things about you. The second one is about being a man. I did not care for this one. The third one is about Mothers and how to be a better mother. This was a very enjoyable read. I would like to mention that the next edition of the health club I was going to join will only allow women. This can't be done in today's society. What ever happened to a man's rights. I am sure there will be some women who can bench press more than 250 lbs. But, that's not what the original health club was designed for. My focus is to get rid of the 10 or so extra pounds I have been trying to lose. I am going to join another club, but it will be in a different location. There are women that will not be able to meet my standards, no matter how strong they are. I don't want a club that will give up on me, so I won't join a club. Selective induction of apoptosis in haematopoietic cells by the tumour suppressor protein p53. The tumour suppressor protein p53 has a central role in the regulation of cell growth and is frequently mutated in human cancers. Whereas most p53 mutations are believed to be non-functional, some result in gain-of-function activity that might cause oncogenic transformation. In this report, we describe that the overexpression of wild-type p53 induces programmed cell death (apoptosis) in a wide variety of haematopoietic cell lines. Moreover, murine erythroleukaemia cells expressing wild-type p53 can be established from transgenic mice. The apoptotic response is p53-specific, and occurs at multiple levels. Importantly, ectopic expression of wild-type p53 in haematopoietic cells was accompanied by an inhibition of proliferation, growth and colony formation. Ect
