The method for measurement of environmental particulate lead by transmission electron microscopy (TEM) and scanning electron microscopy (SEM) was verified in this study, using a suspension of microorganisms that had been contaminated with lead ions and examined by TEM and SEM. In the TEM measurement, a portion of a microorganism was drawn on a TEM mesh and observed under a TEM by measuring electron scattering and the elemental analysis of the particle. The SEM measurement was performed by using the combination of a filter with lead (Pb) on the open cell of a microorganism and a Pt loop on the backside of the sample. During the SEM measurement, the sample was transferred on a stage and heated to a temperature of 270 degrees C in order to lose the lead particles on the filter. The SEM measurement was used to measure the distribution and the mass of the lead particles on the microorganisms.BPA & BPA- Free Business & Industrial We have designed our plastic packages to meet all the required standards for food contact and cover a wide range of plastics used in industry: High pressure polyethylene, Polypropylene (PP) and Polystyrene (PS). BPA free plastic allows the packaging to be made without the toxic chemical Bisphenol A. Where available we can also offer BPA free polypropylene (PP) and polystyrene (PS) as alternative options. Please contact us for more information. The plastic will be manufactured to the code on the bottom of the illustration for all optional plastics Plastic can be engraved for specific requirements, please advise us of requirements at design stageCurrent trends in the management of mechanical ileus.
