Genstat is the most popular and widely used statistical software package in the world, and it is free for personal use..Throughout the United States and Canada, inpatient, acute care detoxification services for opiate addicted individuals have increased in line with the documented opiate epidemic. As the demand for treatment of opiate addicted individuals increases, so does the need for therapeutic options that are safe and efficacious, and better able to meet the needs of this growing patient population. Methadone is the most widely used medication for the maintenance of opiate addiction, but its use requires a pre-commitment by the patient and a specialized and costly outpatient clinic. We propose to develop, manufacture, and implement a pre-commitment device that will enable opiate addicted individuals to self-commit to a methadone maintenance program upon presentation for treatment at an acute care detoxification facility. The device functions by producing an oral methadone dose that is delivered via an on-demand timer. Thus, the device was designed to be easy for patients to use and more importantly, to be a cost-effective alternative to conventional outpatient methadone maintenance programs. The device will be highly cost-effective and will significantly reduce the cost of outpatient methadone therapy. In Phase I we will produce and demonstrate the prototype device to be used in the proposed Phase II. In Phase II, we will conduct a pilot human trial using the methadone on-demand device, to refine the device and demonstrate the safety and efficacy of the device. The device will make methadone more accessible to opiate addicted individuals who will benefit from methadone maintenance therapy, will improve patient retention in methadone maintenance treatment, will lower treatment costs, and will thereby reduce the public health burden of substance abuse.et al*.[[@ref6]] used a higher dilution for RBC lysis method.
