The German once again leads a Renault team in the Constructors' Championship but is facing an uphill battle to repeat the feat at the end of the year as rival Mercedes-Benz is closing on him in the standings. Hulkenberg is eager to contribute to his team's championship battle and ended his post-season testing at the end of last month with a steady run of 1m 17.928s set at Barcelona's Circuit de Catalunya. When asked by Motorsport.com how he felt as the time ran out on the six-day test, he replied: "I wouldn't say that because it's the first time I'm the fastest, but one thing you can say is that it's a very positive result." He insisted he had not laid back throughout the testing period as he admitted the track was now a lot "more challenging" with the new track surface. "We were aware that when we came to this track, there were a few questions," he added. "It's not going to be easy. We've got to gain as much data as we can." Although the production-based team is likely to miss out on top spot this year, Hulkenberg is convinced that there is no reason why Renault can't challenge the top two in the Constructors' Championship for a second year in succession. "We have shown very well in the past we can be as competitive as the big manufacturers," he said. "Also last year, we were developing everything for 2014, we didn't really focus on the next year. So I think we have proven that we can be as competitive as them on the track." Championship countdown: Fitness? I work out and eat healthy/well, but there are moments where I have gained weight. 5ec8ef588b
