"If you look at the symptoms that Dr. Preer recognized and the symptoms that Dr. Deborah-House recognized, there was a great deal of overlap in them," she said. "And the symptoms and the patterns of chronic pain in the leg and the hip and the low-back and the non-specific symptom of fatigue are the same symptoms that are actually seen in fibromyalgia." And given that degenerative joint disease can be a precursor to fibromyalgia, what's to say that fibro doesn't start in the same place? "We have to remember that some of the symptoms are common in fibromyalgia," Dr. Fitch said. "They're not the same thing, but they're in a category, and they are indicative of underlying pain problems.❖"
