Billin' on a Budget (season 2) The second season of Billin' on a Budget, a reality television program broadcast on MTV, originally aired from April 23 to July 20, 2008. It was an adaptation of the VH1 program Rock of Love with Bret Michaels. It was filmed in Miami, Florida, in the United States. The entire season was condensed for airing in a block on Sunday nights. Billed as a spin-off from Rock of Love, the second season featured Bret Michaels and multiple other musicians, performing their own songs and covering each other's songs. During the first half of the season, the cast members were split into two groups: The "Rock Star Challengers" performed original songs, while the "Stars" performed cover versions of other singers' songs. The second half featured the "Challengers" reuniting to perform cover songs, while the "Stars" performed original songs. The second season is the first season of the series to premiere on a weekly basis, airing on Sundays. As well as airing in the United States, the first five episodes were shown in the United Kingdom on Channel 4. Show summary The "Rock Star Challengers" The "Rock Star Challengers" group was composed of 10 contestants. The "Rock Star Challengers" were coached by Bret Michaels, and their original performances were separated into two different categories: songs from the original rock and roll era ("Out of This World" by The Beatles) and contemporary rock songs ("F
